MHT State Historic Sites Inventory Form: Married Enlisted Quarters, by Stuart Paul Dixon/KCI Technologies, Inc., 1995

Description of Property and Eligibility Determination: (Use continuation sheet if necessary and attach map and photo)

These three structures have no known association with either events or persons, thus disqualifying them for eligibility under Criteria A and B. The design of the multiple dwellings is typical of its period, circa 1940. However, their design is not a particularly distinctive example of its type. Additionally, there have been alterations to their façades, and the buildings are unoccupied and deteriorating, thus compromising their integrity. They are not, therefore, eligible under Criterion C. Criterion D was not evaluated for this study.

Married Enlisted Quarters
Anne Arundel County

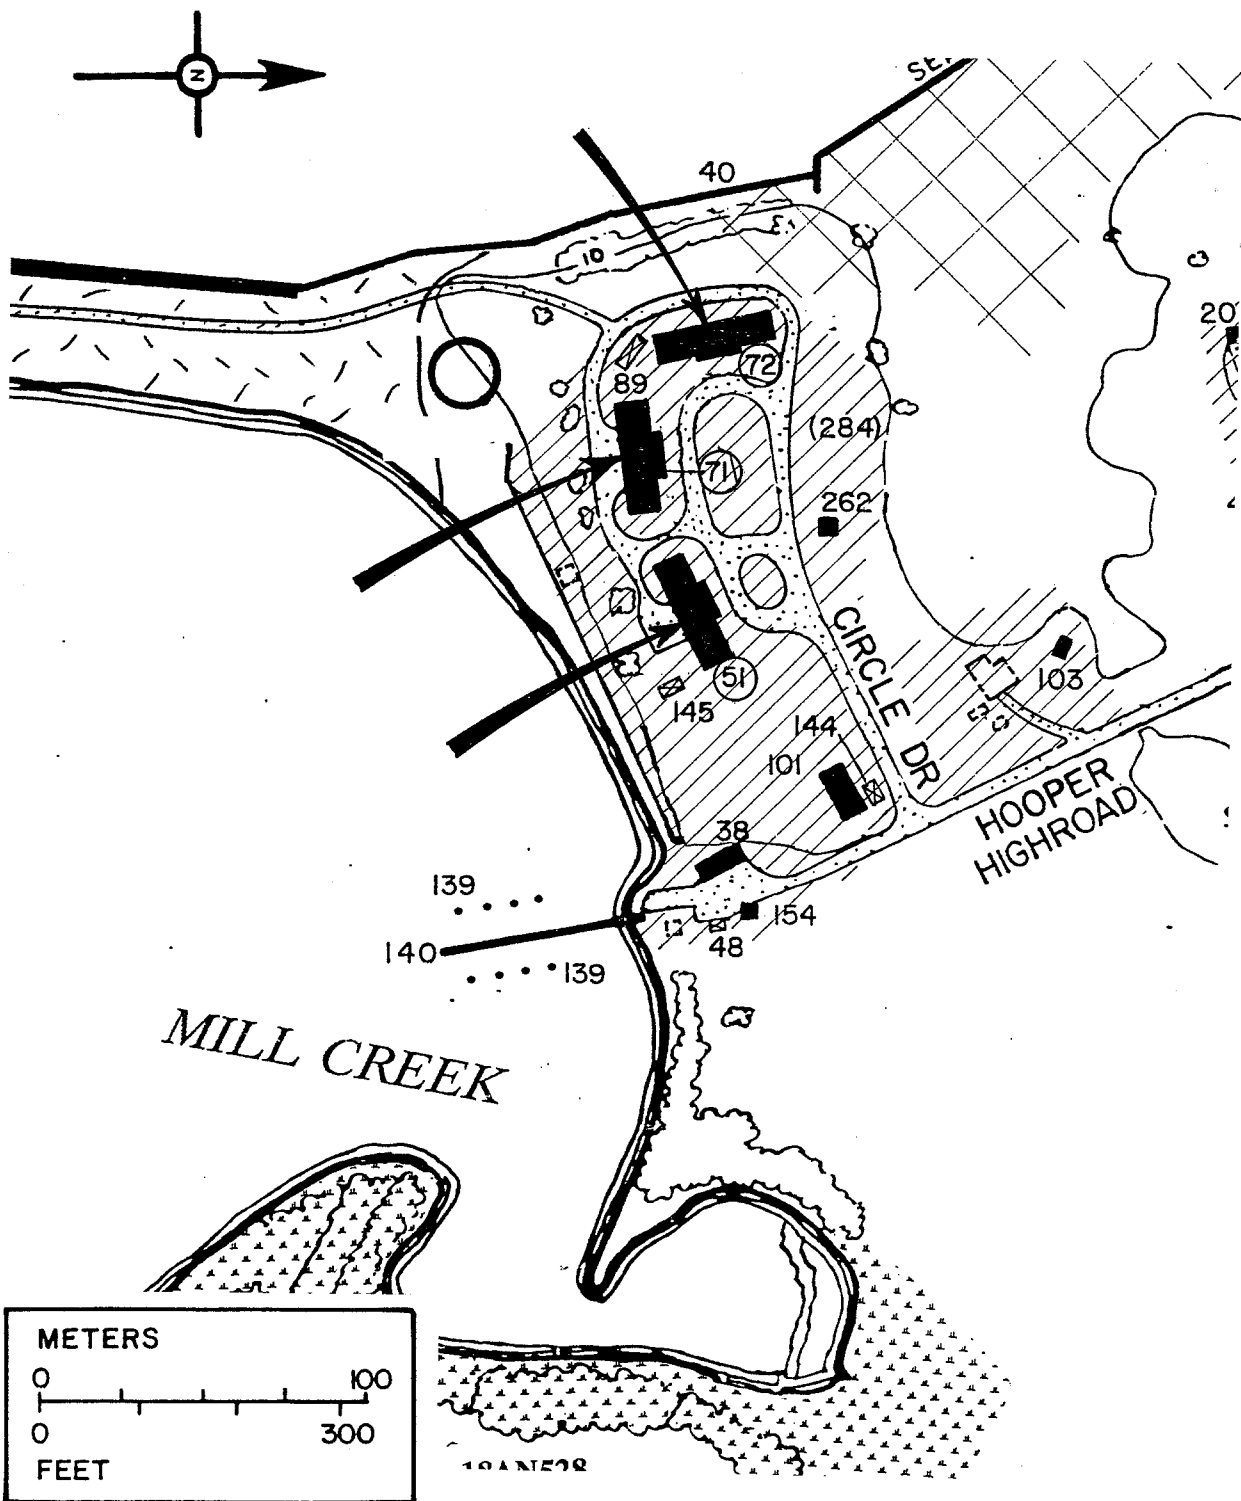

DESCRIPTION

Contributing Resource Count: 3

Three Married Enlisted Quarters, Buildings NA51, NA71 and NA72, are atop a small knoll along the north side of Beach Circle Drive adjacent to Possum Point in Anne Arundel County, Maryland (Photo 41500-6). Erected between 1939 and 1942, the three multiple-family dwellings share common architectural features as well as function. The large two-and-one-half story rectangular buildings reflect the massing and ornament of Colonial Revival architectural stylings popular during the first half of the twentieth century (Photo 41500-9).

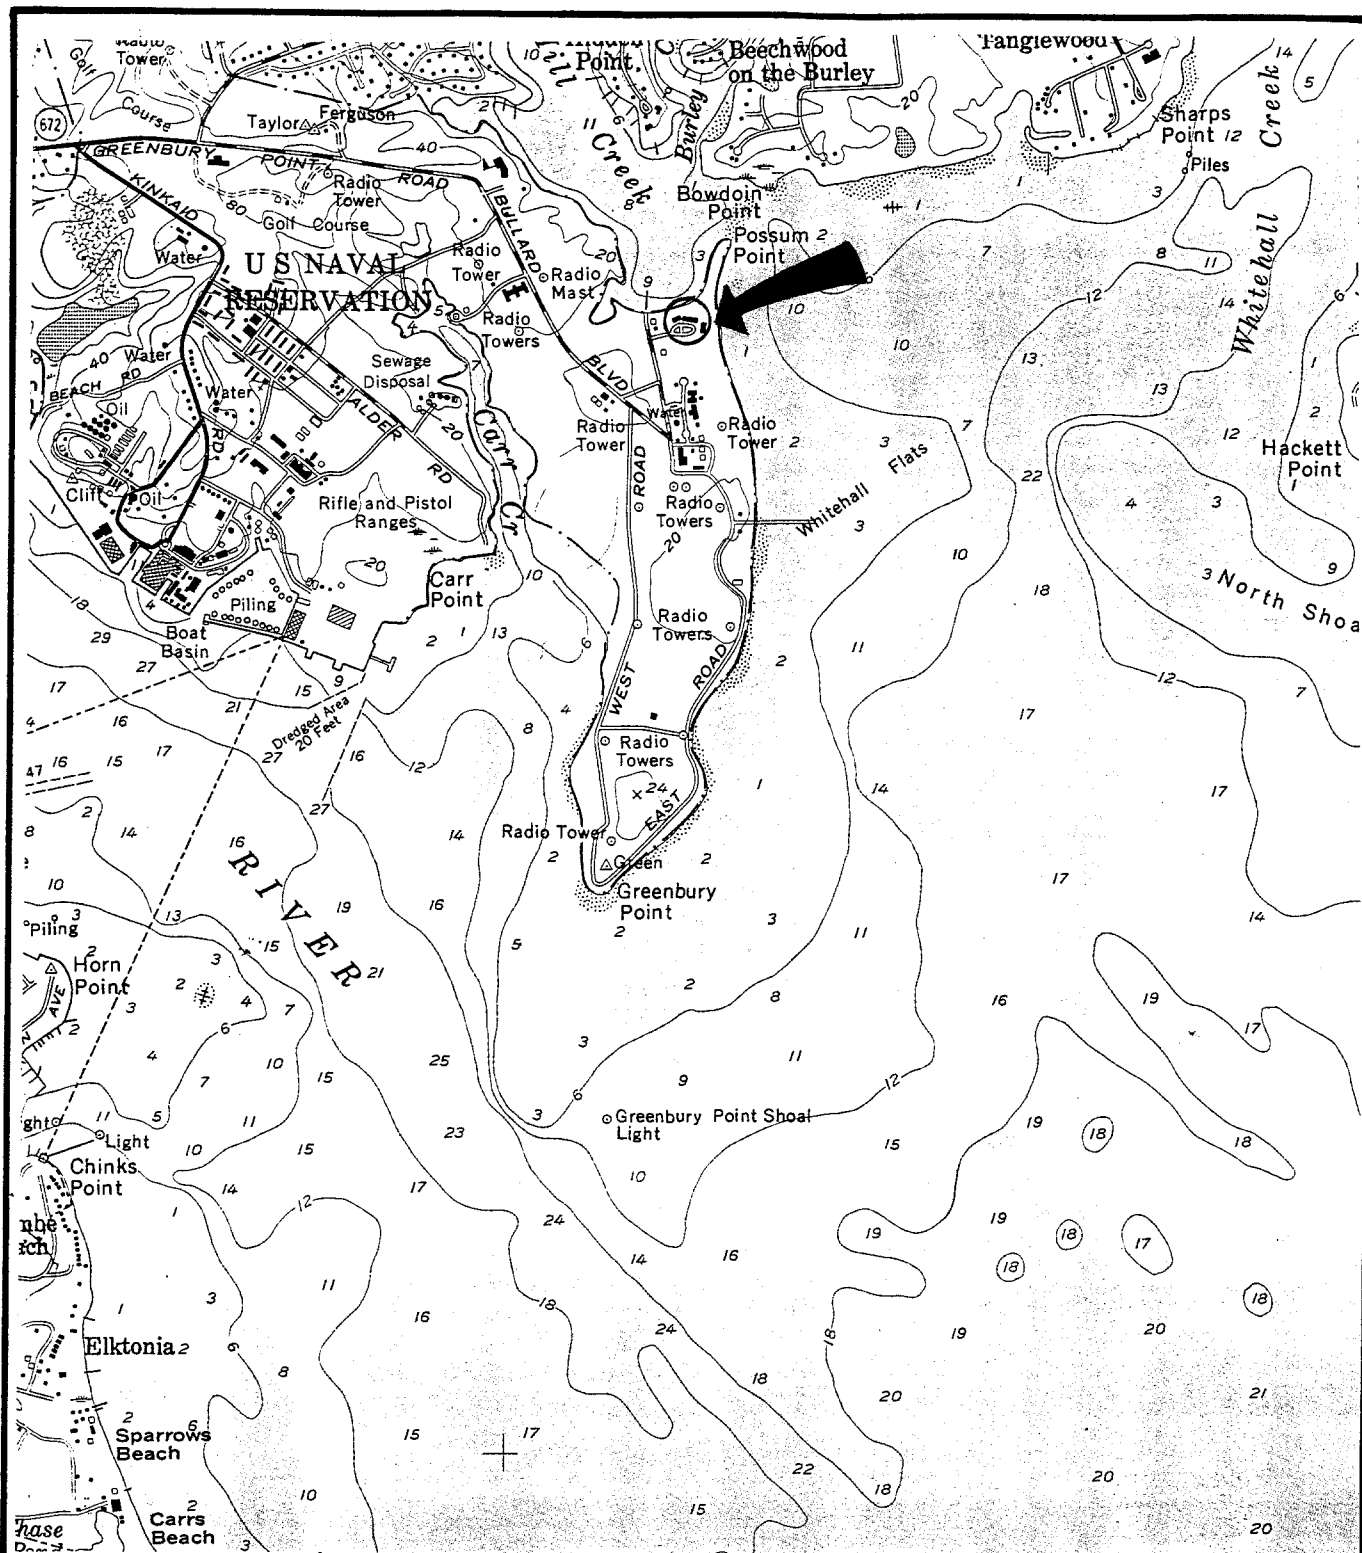

The buildings consist of a symmetrically-spaced 11-bay wide, hipped-roof brick structure with one-bay wide, two-story enclosed porches flanking both ends of the three-bay deep Quarters (Photo 41500-7). A two-story enclosed porch topped by a pedimented gable roof encloses the three central bays of the buildings' main elevations facing Beach Circle Drive. Asphalt shingles cover the hipped roofs while copper sheets protect the four round-arch dormers penetrating both the northern and southern roof slopes. Vinyl siding covers the three porches' piers while stucco conceals the spandrels below each porch's windows. The brick structures utilize five-to-one common bond. A poured-concrete foundation supports each building. Brick chimney piles pierce the ridges.

Round-arch, rowlock keystone lintels crown fanlights and sidelights ornamenting doorways located either side of the centrally-located porch. The entrances contain wooden doors with nine lights. Matching doorways in the rear elevations do not exhibit the ornamental keystone lintels (Photo 41500-10). The main structure's windows display concrete sills and plastic muntins imitating eight-over-eight sash. Six-over-six sash occupy the rear elevation's windows although some openings contain paired sash. The porches feature narrow casements bordering large picture windows in each bay.
